

David Varela

David Varela grew up in Burbank, California and has been a longtime family friend of the Byram family. He met Benjamin Byram in middle school after joining the show choir program and they have been friends ever since. David has been creating freelance animation since 2011, when he developed an independent video game with Benjamin and two other childhood friends.

David has consistently worked on animations for his church, Christian Assembly, since accepting Christ in 2013. Though relatively new to his faith, he jumped at the opportunity to be the animator of the Treasure Toons project. He felt naturally called to it not only because it spoke to his personal beliefs but also utilized his talents and gifts. In addition to animation, he is currently pursuing voice acting as a career and has recorded commercials that have aired on both radio and TV.
